

The Tabor Street Crew

Carole, Joan, Laurentina, Renay, and Anna

It started with a visit, and quickly accelerated into a party—a party filled with laughter, the meeting of old and new friends, inspired hymn singing, and good cheer.

Anna kept peppering the conversation with her clever wit and Carole, with her gift of gab, had us in stitches! Renay, an occupational aide at Tabor asked us to sing a hymn, and we obliged her with “Amazing Grace.” Perhaps we were a little loud because when we finished, a little lady named Laurentina sauntered into the room and sang Schubert’s “Ave Maria” in her lovely voice. God’s love was all over the room that day!

Both Anna and Carole received a memo from a VBS class this summer.

In these memos each VBS class member introduced his/herself and wrote a message to Anna and Carole.

VOLUNTEERISM

Volunteers play vital and diverse roles in the day-to-day operations at Southcoast Hospitals, acting as patient advocates, running our gift shops and supporting patients and staff in countless other ways. In 2005, volunteers contributed more than 85,000 hours, saving the hospital more than $1 million.
